Wells Fargo GDHD Housing Developers 2022 Cohort

Affordable housing development firms – both nonprofit and for-profit – are a critical resource for strengthening the housing development ecosystem as a whole and expanding the supply of homes that are affordable.

To increase the supply of homes that are affordable and to support the sustained growth and financial independence of experienced development firms working in disinvested communities, Wells Fargo launched GDHD. Flexible and patient capital, a strengthened balance sheet, and increased access to industry connections and resources will help experienced development firms working in disinvested communities to grow their capacity and expand their affordable housing production into the future.

Capital Impact Partners, Low Income Investment Fund, and Reinvestment Fund – three national Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) – have partnered to implement this $30 million initiative on behalf of Wells Fargo.

Cherene Sandidge, president of Sandidge Urban Group, leads a highly experienced development group in the San Francisco Bay Area. As company principal, she has more than 38 years of housing development experience in residential, community retail economics, and for-sale affordable housing. Cherene is often called upon to lend her expert advice and assistance in writing legislation and industry white papers that effect the ways in which projects are funded.

The depth and extent of Cherene's experience is rooted in land-use and planning, construction as a general contractor, and project financing. She has been a trail blazer in just about every industry she has participated in. Her early career as credit officer for Wells Fargo gives her special underwriting knowledge on project structuring, product pricing, loan term financing and market risks. Her housing production has led to more than 2,000 units of housing, local neighborhood shopping center revitalization, and opening of grocery stores in food deserts. She is one of few developers who has produced more than 100+ units of for-sale, affordable housing in the Bay Area.

In 2020, Cherene Sandidge was the creator and author of the State of California BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, and people of color) pool, and the primary force in getting the state to set aside $125 million for BIPOC developers. Additionally, Cherene has written the regulations that are now in effect with the State Housing Department under the Super NOFA that sets aside approximately $100 million for emerging and community developers. All these successful activities were a push to level the playing field, and end the past disenfranchisement of Black developers' access to capital to develop in their own communities. Currently, Cherene is the chair of the award-winning organization Black Developers Forum, a 501c3 organization with the mission to continue advocacy for those issues that affect Black developers.

Ms. Sandidge currently holds a broker's license from the California Department of Real Estate, a bachelor's degree from San Francisco State University, and an MBA from Azusa Pacific University. She is a proud member of Delta Sigma Theta, Sorority Inc. Ms. Sandidge currently resides in the San Francisco Bay Area

Yvonne Stennett
Community League of the Heights

Yvonne Stennett, executive director of the Community League of the Heights (CLOTH), has dedicated her professional and personal life to community development and empowerment.

She has worked at CLOTH since 1979, beginning her career organizing youth and implementing after-school programs before becoming the organization's executive director in 1994.

Yvonne's major achievements during her tenure include:

- ▶ Rehabilitating of more than 3,000 units of low-income housing
- ▶ Creating the Community Health Academy of the Heights, a New Visions/New Century School serving grades 6-12
- ▶ Designing and implementing initiatives dedicated to racial equity and the empowerment of BIPOC residents in northern Manhattan
- ▶ Developing programs assisting minority- and women-owned businesses along the retail corridors of Washington Heights;
- ▶ The strategic leadership of CLOTH as it responded with a variety of programs to the COVID-19 pandemic, including an expanded food pantry and social service outreach.

She has served on Manhattan Community Boards 9 and 12. Yvonne holds a bachelor's degree from Lincoln University, and she completed leadership development programs at Columbia University Business School and the Harvard Kennedy School. She has received the Ellen Sulzberger Straus Leadership Award from the Enterprise Foundation, the Courage in Community Award from the McAuley Institute, and the Brooke Russell Astor Award from the New York City Public Library for her years of service and commitment to community development.

Michael Thorpe
Mt. Vernon Manor CDC

Mike brings more than 20 years of prior experience in construction and real estate development to the organization. He has led the Mt. Vernon Manor CDC staff since 2015, where he runs its real estate development, community programming, and day-to-day operations.

Some of Mike’s proudest accomplishments at Mt. Vernon Manor CDC include redeveloping 150 units of affordable housing in his home neighborhood of Mantua, creating a workforce development program that supports returning citizens with landscaping jobs, and overseeing a neighborhood plan in Mantua that won numerous federal funding awards and ultimately led to the designation of the West Philadelphia Promise Zone.

Prior to joining the staff, Mike served as president of Mt. Vernon Manor’s Board of Directors from 2011 to 2015. He also serves as an elder at the Resurrection Center Church in Wilmington, Delaware, where he lives with his wife and son.

Lorraine Wilson-Drake
Wilson-Drake Development, LLC

Lorraine Wilson-Drake is the owner of Wilson-Drake Development, LLC, a company that provides well-designed, moderately priced apartments in the city of Philadelphia. The company develops exclusively in neighborhoods that have higher levels of poverty and disinvestment. The value proposition for the tenant is an affordable apartment with good amenities in a neighborhood that is undergoing change.

Currently, she is developing three projects in the Germantown section of Philadelphia. Originally from San Francisco, Lorraine earned her bachelor’s degree in economics from San Francisco State University. She also holds a master’s degree in journalism and an MBA from Columbia University.

Lorraine spent 17 years in sales and marketing in the television industry working for CBS, FOX , ESPN, and ABC. She also spent time in business development at the Upper Manhattan Empowerment Zone, attracting companies and investment to Harlem. Her last job before becoming an entrepreneur was vice president of daytime sales at ABC television network.

She moved to Philadelphia in 2001 and started Wilson-Drake Development after noticing a gap in the housing market for what she calls affordable luxury. Wilson-Drake Development has completed 16 mostly new construction projects since inception.
